Conceived by Walt Disney himself, the idea was born out of a desire to create a place where families could escape daily routines and immerse themselves in fantasy, imagination, and storytelling. - The Need for a Larger Space:

Disneyland's limited size and capacity meant it could become overcrowded. Walt envisioned a "Experimental Prototype Community of Tomorrow" (EPCOT), a city of the future that would serve as a testbed for urban innovation, which later evolved into the EPCOT theme park.

- The Decision to Build Walt Disney World:

Recognizing the limitations of Disneyland, Disney sought a larger plot of land—initially considering California, but ultimately choosing Florida due to its climate, size, and accessibility. The area was largely agricultural, providing the space needed for his expansive vision.

The Planning and Development

- Site Selection and Land Acquisition:

Disney and his team scouted for suitable land, eventually purchasing approximately 27,443 acres of farmland in Central Florida. The land was bought discreetly to avoid inflated prices and speculation.

- Designing the Resort:

The plan included multiple theme parks, hotels, golf courses, and recreational facilities. The centerpiece was the Magic Kingdom, modeled after Disneyland but scaled up with more elaborate attractions.
