Cold War Context

The global rivalry between the United States and the Soviet Union significantly influenced the conflict. The U.S. aimed to prevent the spread of communism into Southeast Asia, adopting a policy of containment, which led to increased involvement in Vietnam.

Major Phases of the Vietnam War

Early U.S. Involvement (1955-1964)

Initially, U.S. support was limited to advisory roles and financial aid to South Vietnam. The Gulf of Tonkin Incident in 1964 marked a turning point, leading to the Gulf of Tonkin Resolution, which authorized expansive military action.

The Tet Offensive in 1968, although a military setback for North Vietnam, was a psychological blow to American public support.

Vietnamization and Declining U.S. Support (1969-1973)

Under President Nixon, the policy of Vietnamization aimed to gradually withdraw U.S. troops and transfer combat roles to South Vietnamese forces. Peace negotiations intensified, culminating in the Paris Peace Accords of 1973.

End of the War and Fall of Saigon (1973-1975)

Despite the accords, fighting continued until North Vietnamese forces launched a final offensive in 1975. The fall of Saigon on April 30, 1975, marked the reunification of Vietnam under communist control.

Vietnamese Society and Reunification

The war devastated Vietnam's infrastructure and population. After reunification, the Communist government implemented radical reforms, and the country faced years of reconstruction and hardship.

Media and Public Opinion

Media coverage played a crucial role in shaping public perception. Graphic images and reporting increased anti-war sentiment in the U.S., influencing policy decisions.
